A GUIDE TO PREPARING YOUR 2019 INCOME TAX RETURN

The information in this guide is of a general nature only and assumes that you are a resident of Australia for taxation purposes. Please contact your financial adviser or tax agent if you require further information.

The purpose of this guide is to assist you in preparing your income tax return relating to your income stream for the 2018/2019 financial year.

Earlier this year, we wrote to you about the Successor Fund Transfer of your account from the OnePath MasterFund (OPMF) to the Retirement Portfolio Service (RPS).

For this financial year, if you received payments from both the OPMF and the RPS, you would have received two separate PAYG payment summaries.

Please follow the steps in the tables on the following page. You will also need the following documents relating to payments from both the OPMF and the RPS where applicable:

- Schedule of Additional Information
- PAYG Payment Summary.

SCHEDULE OF ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Your Schedule of Additional Information provides details of your deductible amount/tax free component and tax offset for the 2018/2019 financial year, and includes the following:

- Deductible amount/tax free component: The portion of your superannuation income stream which is tax exempt.
- Australian superannuation income stream tax offset: The maximum tax offset you can claim if you have received a superannuation income stream benefit with a taxable component.

The deductible amount/tax free component of your superannuation income stream is not required to be included in your income tax return.

If you received a 'superannuation pension' with an undeducted purchase price (UPP) before 1 July 2007, the deductible amount will continue to apply until a trigger event occurs, such as when you reach age 60 or your income stream is partially or wholly commuted.

PAYG PAYMENT SUMMARY

Your PAYG Payment Summary shows the gross annuity/superannuation income stream payments you have received and the total tax withheld during the 2018/2019 financial year.

From 1 July 2017, the 'defined benefit income cap' limits the amount of tax-free income you can receive from a capped defined benefit income stream (pension or annuity) including the ANZ OneAnswer Term Allocated Pension.

For the 2018/2019 financial year, the defined benefit income cap is $100,000. If you exceed this cap, you may be required to include 50% of the excess as assessable income in your tax return.

The defined benefit income cap is applicable to members aged 60 or over (or under age 60 receiving a death benefit income stream and the deceased died on or after age 60).

Your PAYG Payment Summary should be kept with the copy of your income tax return that you keep for your own records.

For more information refer to the ATO publication 'Changes to taxation of defined benefit income streams' and 'Individual tax return instructions 2019' or speak to your financial planner.

PREPARING YOUR 2019 INCOME TAX RETURN

If you have received superannuation income stream payments from both the OPMF and the RPS, as well as any other sources, you will need to add the relevant amounts from all sources in your income tax return to determine the total amounts in the steps on the following page.

Section one – How to declare your superannuation income stream

The taxable component of your superannuation income stream you have received during the 2018/2019 financial year must be declared on your 2019 income tax return. To declare the taxable component of your superannuation income stream, follow the simple steps outlined and refer to the income section of your individual tax return instructions 2019 for additional information.

STEP 1 Refer to your PAYG Payment Summary
Find the amounts shown on your PAYG Payment Summary labelled 'Total tax withheld' and 'Taxable Component'.

STEP 2 Individual tax return form 2019 Item 7 – Tax withheld column
Write the amount shown on your PAYG Payment Summary as 'Total tax withheld' in the 'Tax withheld' column.

STEP 3 Individual tax return form 2019 Item 7 – Taxable Component – Taxed element
Write the amounts shown on your PAYG Payment Summary as 'Taxable Component – Taxed element' at label J.

STEP 4 Individual tax return form 2019 Item 7 – Assessable amount from capped defined benefit income stream
For further information, refer to ATO publications 'Changes to taxation of defined benefit income streams' and 'individual tax return instructions 2019'. The defined benefit income tool www.ato.gov.au/Calculators-and-tools/Defined-benefit-income-cap-tool can be used to calculate the cap that applies to you based on your superannuation capped defined benefit income streams.

Section two – How to claim your Australian superannuation income stream tax offset

To claim a tax offset, follow the simple steps outlined below and refer to the tax offset section of your individual tax return instructions 2019 for additional information.

STEP 1 Refer to your Schedule of Additional Information
If a tax offset amount is shown, please read on.

STEP 2 Individual tax return form 2019 Item T2
The Australian superannuation income stream tax offset amount shown on your Schedule of Additional Information is the tax offset.

STEP 3 Individual tax return form 2019 Item T2 – Tax offset
Write your tax offset in the box labelled S.

Your 2019 income tax return is due for lodgement with the Australian Taxation Office by 31 October 2019, unless you are lodging through a tax agent.
