

Suspended funds update

ALMOST $2 BILLION HAS BEEN RETURNED TO DATE | JULY 2012

In late 2008 a number of investment funds were suspended due to events associated with the GFC. Since then we have continually worked on ways to return capital to impacted investors on a regular basis. To date, almost $2 billion has been returned to investors across our superannuation, retirement and investment products.

Below, we explain why funds were suspended, why they remain suspended, and the progress we have made to date in terms of returning capital to investors.

Why funds were suspended

To protect the interests of our investors, we made the difficult decision to suspend withdrawals from, and investments into some of our funds. Suspending the funds meant we have been able to ensure any available monies could be released equitably, over time, to all investors.

Why funds continue to be suspended

At this stage the funds remain suspended due to the nature of their underlying investments which include one of the following: mortgages over real property, direct properties or private debt (i.e. loans). These types of assets are not tradable on markets, and therefore need to be held to maturity in the case of mortgages or private debt (unless the borrower can repay early or the debt can be on sold).

How we manage the suspended funds

We continue to monitor the suspended funds very closely regarding their future outlook and understand that many investors wish to access their capital as soon as possible. With this in mind we have been returning capital to investors on a quarterly basis where possible. Our overarching responsibility is to manage the interests of investors.

Returns of capital to date

The table below provides a summary for each of the suspended funds and the capital we have returned to date, through our pro rata return of capital process.

AXA Australian Property Fund	Predominantly invests into direct property	Ad hoc return of capital as underlying manager sells properties and passes on proceeds.  Please note we have submitted a withdrawal request for 100% of capital. It is expected that this could be received by 30 January 2013.	23% Over 3 capital releases during 2011.

* These amounts are the total monies distributed through the return of capital process as a percentage of funds under management at the commencement of the pro rata return of capital process. For some of the funds there are different percentages for different products, e.g. Investment Portfolio, Personal Super and Pension. In these cases the lowest percentage has been quoted in the above table.
