ANZ Economist, Madeline Dunk, commented:

ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence continues to move within a narrow range, with the series rising 0.1pts last week. Optimism about the coming year has been rising since July. Household confidence in the 12-month economic outlook has risen 10.7pts since early July (the strongest gain in the subindices over the second half of the year), while confidence regarding personal finances over the next 12 months gained 8.2pts since July.

Inflation expectations eased 0.2ppt to 4.7%, possibly in response to last week's Q3 Wage Price Index report, which showed a broad-based deceleration in wage growth. The data are likely to give the RBA more confidence that wage growth is returning to a rate that is consistent with its target of 2-3% inflation.
