ANZ appoints Martin Hanrahan Global Head of Corporate Advisory

ANZ today announced the appointment of Martin Hanrahan as Global Head of Corporate Advisory, responsible for providing mergers and acquisitions services to International and Institutional Banking (IIB) clients in Australia and Asia.

Mr Hanrahan has worked in ANZ's industrials advisory team since 1998 and advised on recent notable deals including Fosun International's acquisition of Roc Oil, Formosa's joint venture with Fortescue Metals Group and the sale of Holcim's NZ lime business to Graymont.

He will oversee ANZ's corporate advisory team based in Sydney, Melbourne and Singapore, which provides domestic and international M&A advisory services to public companies and private businesses, particularly for cross-border transactions. It is focused on supporting clients in the agriculture, natural resources and infrastructure and utilities sectors.

Prior to joining ANZ Mr Hanrahan was Managing Director of Bancorp Australia Limited, after working in corporate finance at Morgan Grenfell Australia Limited.

In his new role he reports to ANZ Managing Director of Global Loans & Advisory Christina Tonkin who said: "Martin has an extensive track record of major public company takeovers, equity capital raisings and restructurings both in Australia and key international markets.

"He is well qualified to drive the development of our capabilities for Australian companies looking to expand overseas, as well as inbound companies looking to invest in Australia – particularly in the Australia-China trade corridor."
